

THEORY OF CHANGE

Our Mission

Our mission is to improve the lives and protect the rights of women, children, youth, and other people who are often overlooked, undervalued, and underserved in humanitarian responses to displacement and crises.

RESEARCH

We conduct collaborative, inclusive, and communitydriven research.

- We develop innovative research approaches that identify gaps and generate evidence to shape policy and action.
- We support local organizations to take the lead in studies and enhance their capacity to shape the design, implementation, and use of research in their communities.

RETHINK

We develop evidence-based guidance, tools, and recommendations for adoption across sectors that encourage positive change in policy and practice by donors, governments, and practitioners.

- We convene diverse stakeholders to ensure a variety of key perspectives inform solutions.
- We advocate for rights-based, inclusive, community-driven humanitarian and displacement policy and practice.

RESOLVE

We drive implementation of proposed solutions in partnership with donors, policymakers, and practitioners.

> We engage diverse alliances and partners to bridge the local to the global, recenter power, and transform systems.

 We monitor progress and promote accountability.

Our Vision

Our vision is a world where all people displaced by conflict or crisis are welcomed with dignity; are safe, healthy, and self-reliant; have their human rights and agency respected; and get the support and resources they need to rebuild their lives.

Recenter

We have a long-term commitment to investing in local actors to support their agency and leadership. We do this by making local systems more responsive to what displaced people and their communities want and need, directly funding local entities, and nurturing a new generation of leaders.
